Huse Morgan, City Marshal of Stephenson, was in Louisville a couple of days last week.

Hon. G. W. Beard and wife, of Harbingsburg, attended the Goodson concert Monday night.

If you want a perfect fitting shirt and one that will give you good service, call on Ernest Ralbaugh.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coons, of Menard county, were the guests of Mrs. Bassett several days last week.

The Rev. Dr. Cottrell is here, a guest of his daughter Mrs. G. W. Short. He will remain several weeks.

Joe D. Jolly, of near Harbingsburg, has bought a lot in the Eastland addition and built a house at it.

Quite a crowd of Harbingsville people chartered the steamer Lucille and came up to attend the Goodson concert.

Mrs. Mary Solberg the venerable mother of Mr. Henry Solberg, died at her home in Leopold, Ind., June 13, 1892.

The city was full of wagons from the country yesterday, and the merchants seemed to be doing a very good business.

The Patton brick works are running every day now, getting a nice lot of green brick ahead. They will begin to burn soon.

If you want a lot in the Eastland addition you had better call on Pierce & Short at once. They are moving things rapidly.

Mr. Jas. T. Sublette has removed from Big Spring to Clover Bend, Ark., and desires the Xmas to follow him. Says he can't get along without it.

THEY DID COME.

THE BRECKENRIDGE NEWS EXCURSION A CROWNING SUCCESS.

A Crowded Train Load of Our Old Friends Came To See Us And Pass A Pleasant Day.

Cloverport Pats On Her Sunday Clothes And Gives Them A Royal Welcome.

COME AGAIN, FRIENDS.

The BRECKENRIDGE NEWS excursion from Louisville to Cloverport last Friday was a grand success. More than 400 of our old-time friends gladdened our hearts by their presence, and the day was passed in pleasant land shaking and the friendly clasp of old associates. The croakings of the ancients and the dark predictions of those afflicted with the evils all came to naught, and the people did come regardless of the many doubting shakes of the head given when the subject was mentioned, by those who either have very faint hearts or very little enterprise about them.

The success of this trip proves that there is still a soft place for Cloverport in the hearts of the people who live in the back part of the county, and all that is necessary for us to resume our old relations with that section is to offer the proper inducements, and the people will do their part.

THE TRIP IN DETAIL.

The train consisted of four coaches, manned as follows: Jerry Gannan, engineer; P. Kramer, fireman; B. F. Harrell, conductor; and Frank Chappell, brakeman—a big four of its never rallied men as ever waved a signal, turned a crank, pulled a throttle or rang a bell. The News was represented by V. G. Kellogg and Clayton Crockett.

We left Louisville on exact schedule time, 6 o'clock a. m., and had gathered a large crowd from all along the road to Harbingsburg. But when this station was reached the last car of the train was unhooked, and more than a hundred people came aboard, including the Harbingsburg Cornet Band. These filled the train to more than its seating capacity, and the crowds that came aboard further on had to either sit on the arms of the seats in the late or on the floor of the car, hanging onto the steps. After leaving Irvington it was impossible to pass by the train and few tickets were taken up on the way.

Arrived at Cloverport, the crowd scattered themselves all over the city—some visiting friends or relatives; others, the various business houses, gas wells, brick plants, car shops, etc. The Harbingsburg band paraded the streets and discordant music that was a surprise to Cloverport, as we were so many others. It was not generally known that we had so good a band so near us, and it may be truthfully said that it can not be beaten in this section. The music was so fine in fact it rivals the best of bands heard in large cities.

In this way the day was passed until train time again, when the visitors gathered at the depot. Many Cloverporters were present to see the departure, and the train pulled out amid the waving of many handkerchiefs and shouts of "Good-by." And thus was ended a gala day for Cloverport.

Financially the excursion was also a success. We don't mean that it paid a profit, but we mean that it did all that we asked of it or expected it to do. It was not intended for a money-making scheme, and we did not expect it to be. We estimated closely about what sized crowd we could expect and placed the rates at such low figures that it would just about pay our expenses. When we got to the depot, we found that at some places, we gained at others, which made the average still about as we had figured it. The deficiency was only a few dollars, and we used to be bling. We wanted the people to get the benefit of the low rates, and we gave it to them. We wanted a success as a large crowd, and that we got. And the BRECKENRIDGE NEWS and the citizens of Cloverport will ever feel grateful to the people for their liberal patronage on that day. In the name of the citizens of Cloverport, we wish to say to the people who visited us on that day, and to those who shall at home, also, "Let us renew our old acquaintanceship and familiarity, let us tear down the barriers that seem to exist between us, and stand together, shoulder to shoulder, working for each other's interests, as we used to. Let us have more of these cheap excursions and cultivate the acquaintance that has been so pleasantly begun." Cloverport will meet the people more than half way, if they will do the rest.

NOTES.

There is some fun on a crowded train after all.

Most every business house was nicely decorated.

The merchants say they did a good business.

The saloon men did well, but no body was drunk.

The hand boys looked well in their handsome uniforms.

Everybody was well behaved, not a single arrest during the day.

Everybody was well pleased with the trip and said he was coming again.

When we turned on the gas from one of our big wells the terrible noise frightened the visitors.

Charlie Lihen, representative of the Cook Brewery Company, was the hustling man in the city—kept busy with his pony cart and delivering kegs of the famous beverage.

If Harbingsburg wants anything from the Breckenridge News, all she has to do is to name it.

It was a representative body of people. The very best citizens from all sections of the county being present.

It was a conspicuous fact and one noted by everybody, that it was one of the nicest and most orderly excursions ever run on either road.

Cloverport didn't look natural to the old-timers of twenty-five years ago. They could hardly realize the great change.

The agents along both lines who so kindly assisted in selling tickets have our thanks. Mr. Wainworth, the clever agent at Harbingsburg, was the banner man, selling $7 tickets.

Our advertisers can now have some idea of the class of people they talk to every week. The entire delegation with but few exceptions are either subscribers or readers of the BRECKENRIDGE NEWS.

Miss Goodson's Concert.

A crowded house greeted Miss Ella Goodson and her musical concert Monday night. Not only were Cloverporters present, but visitors from Harbingsburg, Irvington, Harbingsville and other places up and down the road were there.

All those who took part in the entertainment acquitted themselves splendidly, and the pupils of Miss Goodson, especially, showed by their perfect performance that great skill and care had been taken in their instructions. The parents and teachers of these accomplished children have much of which they may feel proud.

The program was a long and interesting one, and every part of it was rendered with an accuracy of perfection that only naturally gifted and well trained persons can accomplish. More especially was the singing of Mrs. J. R. Wimp and Miss Ellen Munford good, and the audience revelled in it with fervor that of them was repeatedly expressed.

Miss Francis Goodson also sang well, and Miss Mary Ashbire delivered her "Sweet Song" a sweet, clear voice, but she was so far along in the program that the audience had grown tired and she did not catch the house as she would have done had she sung earlier in the evening.

TOBINSPOUR, IND.

This week closed the strawberry season.

Dr. Morrill, of New Albany, was here last week.

Mrs. Burton and daughter, Hortense, have gone to Owensboro, and from there they will go to Evansville to spend a month before leaving for California.

Our trustee has purchased a fine road scraper for the purpose of keeping our roads in better condition, and spent on worthy farmers think it is too hard on the farmers. Our trustee desires me to inform the farmers who are afraid to use their horses in it, that it is easy on horses, and if used will soon put our roads in good condition. We know our worthy trustee would not buy anything only for the best.

Mug's Good One.

The Frankfort correspondent of the Louisville Commonwealth has this to say of our Representative. "Mr. D. H. Severs, the able representative from Breckenridge, has been one of the staunchest supporters of the majority report on judicial reorganization, and much of the success of that bill in the House is due to his tireless work in its behalf. Severs is a hard worker, a game fighter, and watches closely the interests of his people."

Abner Dent, the blacksmith, went to Owensboro Monday to renew his stock of iron, steel, etc.

Henry Winter. Wm. J. Winter. John M. Bortstranger.

Is It Warm Enough?

If not, it will be very soon, and you can not do better than prepare for the hot weather that is not far off. Some people are still wearing part of their winter suit, which is the best evidence that they have nothing thinner to wear.
